The Charles River Graduate Student Joint Mathematics Colloquium is a collaboration between a bunch of Ph.D. candidates in the Boston area that happen to know each other. 3 schools will host 4 Saturdays throughout the academic year, each Saturday consisting of 4 students each speaking about a different topic.

- Lunch will be provided as will the usual coffee breaks
- Attendance for all four talks is not required
- Please spread the word. Website: http://math.bu.edu/people/jackwalt/colloquium/

All graduate students are welcome! Post docs who still feel like graduate students too.

If you think your school would host in the spring, and want to be involved on an organizational level, please email changer@bu.edu
